CONGRESS FACES BUSY WEEK

ATTEMPT TO HASTEN PASSAGE OF WAGNER UNEMPLOYMENT BILL

Administration Is Not Warm Toward Bills
Is Claimed

WASHINGTON, June 23.—With congressional leaders attempting to bring the present session to a close, a determined effort was under way in the house today to force action on the Wagner unemployment bill, with Representative La Guardia (R) of New York, urging support for his colleague.

Two of the three bills offered by Senator Wagner (D) of N. Y., and passed by the senate are now out of the house judiciary committee, and pending before the house rules committee, which makes up the house program.

La Guardia, whose minority report of the house judiciary committee, was on file today, criticized the committee of which he is a member, and charged it with "emasculating the public works bill by eliminating necessary sections," through admitting the bills of themselves will not solve the problem, though "they are the necessary steps to constructive solution of our unemployment problem."

Thus far administration leaders of the house have looked upon the measures with a cold eye, but there were indications they might be brought to a vote as a result of insistent clamor.

Although the fight has thus far been conducted on a non-partisan basis, Democratic leaders have indicated they would charge Republicans with failure to recognize the unemployment situation in the present session, if they fail to permit action.

The most important of the two measures sets up a $150,000,000 federal fund to be used in times of unemployment for public works.

A board also is set up to determine when an emergency exists, or the country is facing a cycle of lagging business.

A second measure provides an elaborate system of gathering statistics on unemployment. It is designed to end the controversy which has raged in congress for the last two years over the number of unemployed, estimated from 1,500,000 to 5,000,000.

Senator Wagner (D) of New York has charged the White House with using its influence to hold up the measures, and has enlisted the support of a bi-partisan progressive group in the house.

A third bill, which Wagner regards as most important, was referred to a judiciary sub-committee headed by Representative Dyer (R) of Missouri. The sub-committee will meet Tuesday to consider the bill, which establishes a system of federal-state free employment exchanges.

Because of the opposition of private employment agencies and the National Association of Manufacturers, the bill is not likely to be reported to the house in time for action.

Belief that President Hoover has taken a personal hand in the fight over the bills was expressed when it became known that Walter Newton, a White House secretary, consulted with members of the house judiciary committee, and suggested changes in the public works bill which was reported.

Newton is said to have told the committee that a portion of the public works bill was duplicated in the employment statistics bill, which came from another committee. The bill was changed as a result.

MEXICAN FLYER IS ACCLAIMED AS HERO

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—Colonel Roberto Fierro was Mexico's premier flyer today and a national hero.

He continued to receive the plaudits of the nation for his feat of completing the first non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City in the last time of sixteen hours, covering the 2,200 miles between the cities at an average speed of about 140 miles an hour.

Fierro refused to take all the glory. He spoke of his companion on the flight, the mechanic Arnulfo Cortes.

"Cortes is as much entitled to the homage of the public as I," he said.

Cortes, however, declared his chief deserved all the credit. Cortes learned to fly overseas with the American army during the World War.

MAN ASPHYXIATED

LANCASTER, O., June 23.—Asphyxiated when he went down in a pit at the Ohio fuel pumping station at Sugar Grove, near here, to adjust a gas valve, Ira Lafave, 45, is dead today.

When Lafave failed to ascend from the pit after being down twenty minutes, employees investigated and found him dead beside the open gas valve.

WALES CELEBRATES 36TH BIRTHDAY BUT IS STILL UNMARRIED

May Be Bachelor King;
Shys From Many Matches

LONDON, June 23.—With all thoughts of matrimony apparently as far away as ever, Edward Prince of Wales, England's heir to the throne, today quietly celebrated his thirty-sixth birthday anniversary. His only formal engagement for the day was a regimental dinner tonight.

And for many the dominant question of the day was—will the prince be the first bachelor king of England since George III ascended the throne in 1760?

The answer remains one of the greatest unsolved problems of current history. Indications are that the prince is steadfast in his determination to be a bachelor, and even his accession to the throne, in the opinion of those who know him well, will fail to alter his ideas in the matter.

Only recently he gave further evidence of his frame of mind when he told a close friend that he was afraid to take a wife for fear that she would at tempt to boss him in the few hours daily in which he is "off duty" from the affairs of state.

Whatever his personal inclination in the matter however, there is no doubt his unmarried status is causing concern to many people within and without the royal family. Many point to the fact that his father and grandfather married at a very early age, and that there are few instances in British history of a prince of Wales approaching the forties without a wife to share the manifold burdens imposed by his position in the realm.

Although they have three other sons, one of whom—the Duke of York—is married, it is well known that King George and Queen Mary desire to see their eldest son married and thus assure a direct succession in the male line.

But with the passage of the years, the list of eligible young women from whom the prince could choose a wife has been steadily reduced.

Many of those who ten years ago

PENSION BILL AND PROHIBITION WILL OCCUPY FINAL WEEK

President Demands Pension Bill Cut Is Learned

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Hoover congress entered the home stretch of its first regular session today with a battle over World War pensions and a clash over prohibition featuring the drive for adjournment next Saturday.

President Hoover entered the pension controversy by announcing he would veto the pending pension bill unless it were modified to substantially reduce its cost. The president was supported by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who declared the government was facing a deficit next year, and by Director Frank T. Hines, of the Veterans Bureau, who said the pending bill was too costly and a departure from sound principles in soldier relief legislation.

Senator James E. Watson (R) of Indiana, meanwhile announced a new bill would be introduced in the senate today, carrying out the administration's ideas on relief for World War veterans. If this measure, keeping the cost of relief around $50,000,000 is defeated, the administration will support an American Legion bill, limiting relief to about $74,000,000. It was indicated the president would veto any other pension bill.

A prohibition row involving activities of President Hoover's law enforcement commission is also to

EAGLES OPEN STATE MEETING AT NEWARK

NEWARK, O., June 23.—The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Ohio convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles was in full session here today following the formal opening of the convalescent night, at which Harry D. Hale officiated as chairman.

The address of welcome was given by Mayor Robbins Hunter and the response was made by Gerald Nauworthy, of Elyria, state president of the order.

More than 20,000 delegates, visitors and friends are expected to attend the annual affair which will continue all this week.

TWO KILLED WHEN PLANE DESTROYED

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—Two people are dead here today and a Detroit airplane pilot is in a critical condition in a local hospital as the result of the explosion of the gasoline tank of their airplane a moment after the ship crashed in a cornfield near the municipal airport yesterday afternoon.

Joseph W. Villeneuve, 45, and his wife, Winifred, 25, were burned to death. Kenneth Aber, the pilot, was seriously burned when he attempted to pull his passengers from the wreckage.

Witnesses said that the ship was a make-shift craft, built from parts of various models.

WOMAN KILLED

DELAWARE, O., June 23.—Funeral arrangements today were being made for Mrs. J. L. Kilbury, 54, who was killed yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband and a friend struck a stretch of loose gravel five miles south of Plain City, O., and overturned into the ditch.

Mr. Kilbury and E. B. Laudin, of Delaware, were seriously injured and are in a critical condition in a Columbus hospital.

LIBERTY BONDS

NEW YORK, June 23.—Opening price quotations for liberty bonds today were: First 4-14s 102.3, fourth 4-14s 102.26, treasury 4-14s 112.28, treasury 4s 108.18, treasury 3-38s of '47 101.25, and treasury 3-38s of '43 101.22.

HEAT BOTHERS GRAF! RUNS AWAY BUT IS CAUGHT

BERLIN, June 23.—After a touch of the heat and an unlooked for display of temperament, the Graf Zeppelin today rode serenely at her anchor mast at Stakken, near Berlin.

Sunday the heat made the famous airship "light-headed" while she was being held by a ground crew at Hamburg. With a surge that threw off the

TEXAN TAKES FIRST TENNIS MATCH WITH STRAIGHT SET WIN

American First To Draw
Blood In Wimbledon
Tilts

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 23.—America drew first blood in the Wimbledon tennis championships when Wilmer Allison, flashing star of Austin, Texas, defeated E. F. Moon of Australia in the colorful tournament opened before an enthusiastic crowd here today.

Allison downed the more experienced Australian in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

The young Texan's victory was a great personal triumph. He had not been chosen among the seeded eight in the singles, his place being taken by the player he opposed on the famous Wimbledon center court as the tournament got under way this afternoon. Thus there was a touch of poetic justice in the fact that Allison eliminated the Australian so thoroughly and decisively, showing a brand of tennis that entitled him to the distinction of being a seeded player.

Allison played speedily and with superb confidence. Moon alternated between brilliance and laxity, with more of the latter than the former. The Australian's best game was in the seventh of the second set, when he served three successive service aces.

Allison's impressive first round victory cheered the large American contingent in the Wimbledon stands. It was estimated 15,000 people, including many fashionable society folk, were on hand for the opening of the tournament.

The boy had gone to the gravel pit yesterday afternoon with three small companions, none of whom could swim. As he was wading, young Driscoll attempted to reach a raft which was floating nearby and he fell. The lad's body was recovered an hour later by John Schmidt.

Efforts to revive him were futile.

ATLANTIC CITY MAYOR, THREE OTHERS KILLED

ABSECON, N. J., June 23.—Anthony M. Ruffo, Jr., 39, mayor of Atlantic City, and three other persons were killed here today when their automobile was hit by a train at a crossing.

Mrs. Margaret Siracusa, the mayor's niece, and Mr. and Mrs. John Wiley of Atlantic City, were the other victims. Wiley was a jitney car inspector.

The automobile was completely wrecked and the mayor and others were believed to have met instant death.

MERGER OF SILVERCREEK AND JAMESTOWN SCHOOLS APPROVED

Final step in the merger of the Silvercreek Twp. and Jamestown village school districts, which has been pending for three years, was taken at a meeting of the Greene County board of education Friday when the board authorized dissolution of the two districts and creation of a new consolidated district for school purposes by uniting the two.

Abolishing of the two districts automatically dissolved the township and village school boards and the county board, after considering the qualifications of a large number of residents of the community and balloting, selected five men by a unanimous vote to serve as members of a temporary school board for the newly-created district.

Andrew Bryan, former member of the Silvercreek Twp. school board; Ernest Rockhold and Milton Oliver, members of the dissolved Jamestown village board, and Roscoe Turner and Russell Spahr, members of the dissolved township board, were appointed on the new board. The temporary board will function until the next general school election when electors of the district will elect a new board.

Dissolution of the two school boards as a result of the merger brings about the retirement of Fred Nelson as a member of the village board, and W. B. Clemmer, J. W. Sheeley and A. B. Garringer, as township education board members.

H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, points out that the merger will not affect the teachers employed by either the village or township board for the next school year and that the seven one-room grade schools in the township will continue to be operated, at last for another year.

The consolidation centralizes the responsibility for school affairs in the community in one board instead of two and the tax burden need never be heavy in the future as the merger will result in a tax duplicate of approximately four million dollars.

Prevailing sentiment in the community was in favor of the merger.

HOUSE DESTROYED BY MYSTERY BLAST

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—A terrific blast of unknown origin followed by flames, completely destroyed a two-story frame house here early today and caused damage to an adjacent dwelling.

The demolished structure was reported to have been unoccupied at the time of the explosion. Firemen, who found furniture among the debris of the crumbled building, started a search through the flames that followed the blast could be brought under control.

The blast, which firemen said apparently originated inside the house, tore away the rear wall of the house. Fire spurted from the windows, igniting an adjacent two-story double house.

Scores of persons living in the neighborhood were awakened by the blast, the shock of which was felt for several blocks around.

CHILD BORN SUNDAY AT MORROW MANSION ON ANNE'S BIRTHDAY

Lindy Remains Calm But Grandad Is More
Excited

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 23.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is today the proud "dad" of a son.

The baby, a fairly lusty infant, was born at 3:15 yesterday afternoon. He weighed seven and three quarters pounds. And, by a happy coincidence, the stork arrived on Mrs. Lindbergh's twenty-fourth birthday anniversary.

Both Mrs. Lindbergh and the baby were reported in fine condition this morning. The mother is the former Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

The baby was born in the palatial Morrow mansion where Mrs. Lindbergh first saw the light exactly twenty-four years ago yesterday.

Speculation was rife today as to what name Anne and "Lindy" would give the child. Two of the best guesses were Dwight Morrow Lindbergh and Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

The famous "lone eagle" is said to have taken the event calmly. He had no comment to make regarding the arrival of the "egglet."

Ambassador Morrow, however, was jubilant. Shortly after the baby was born he went to the home of Douglas Thompson, former mayor of Englewood, and exclaimed:

"I'm a grand-daddy! Isn't that great news?"

Ambassador Morrow was more excited over the arrival of the baby than he was over his recent vic-

STATE G. A. R. MEET OPENS AT LORAIN

LORAIN, O., June 23.—More than 2,000 official delegates convened here today for the sixty-fourth annual state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and five allied organizations.

Business sessions were scheduled to take up most of today's meeting, with Mayor Paul J. Goldthorpe delivering the address of welcome and Department Commander Salomon Williams of Wellington, O., responding.

Governor Myers V. Cooper and Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, are expected to attend the encampment Wednesday. Allied organizations meeting in conjunction with the Grand Army are: the Women's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Union Veterans, sons of Union Veterans, and the Sons of Union Veterans Auxiliary.

STATE DRY AGENTS GET DRUNK; FIRED

NELSONVILLE, O., June 23.—Charged with violating the liquor laws two state prohibition agents had been discharged here today. The dismissed agents are Russell and Eugene Shearer, brothers, both of Alliance.

The agents were dismissed yesterday after they were arrested following an automobile ride with another man and four girls, one of whom fell from the machine and was injured.

Russell Shearer was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated and was fined $100 and costs. Oscar Triplett, of Sebring, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication. The case against Eugene Shearer was dismissed.

The fines were paid by Deputy State Prohibition Commissioner A. V. Aldrich, who dismissed the men.

EDUCATOR OF DEAF DIES IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—Conrad Zorbaugh, 91, widely-known educator of the deaf, is dead here today. Zorbaugh died yesterday at the home for the aged deaf, Central College, near here, where he was a teacher.

He was a teacher at the Iowa State School for the Deaf for thirty-five years following his education at the Ohio State School for the Deaf. He was the father of Dr. Charles Zorbaugh, of Cleveland, and of Professor Grace S. M. Zorbaugh, of Iowa State College, who will come to Ohio State University as associate dean of women next September.

== RESPONSIBILITY ==

The Community that boasts of the greatest measure of commercial and industrial prosperity is the Community in which there is the most complete co-ordination between business and industrial enterprises. One of the prime responsibilities of any Community is the preservation of its local assets and the expansion of local commercial activity.

The very principles of the American governmental system are founded upon the idea of mutual responsibility. Every citizen is responsible to his government for the enactment of suitable laws for the provision of money with which to carry on governmental activities, and for the defense of that government against internal disorder and external aggression. Government, in turn, is responsible to its citizens for the preservation of peace and safety for the health of its people, for the education of the youth, and for the provision of every opportunity for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Without this mutual responsibility we would have chaos and anarchy in a country of over one hundred million people.

What is true of government is true of the local community. We, as citizens of Xenia, have a certain responsibility to the Community itself—to its industry, to its business enterprises, and to our fellow citizens. For responsibility to the Community, at large, means responsibility to one's neighbor and to one's self.

Xenia's Independent Merchants are just as much a part of this Community as the mayor, the council or the police officials. Our responsibility to Xenia is also our responsibility to her local merchants, for her local merchants have assisted Xenia in building the Community that we have today.

Chain Stores have no place in Community development, because they have no responsibility to the local community. Their responsibility is to the Home Office alone.

Help make Xenia a Better Community by carrying out your responsibility to your local merchant.

COUNTY FAIR BOOK REVEALS PREMIUMS FOR ANNUAL EVENT

The ninety-first annual Greene County fair will be held August 5, 6, 7 and 8.

An annual pamphlet has been published by the Greene County Agricultural Society, containing a list of premiums and regulations for the yearly agricultural and horticultural exposition.

In all departments of livestock, poultry, sweepstakes and in the needle and miscellaneous work, preserves, canned fruits and jellies, entries will close Saturday, August 2 at 9 p. m. In the speed department the class entries will close at 11 p. m. July 31.

Office of Secretary J. Robert Bryson will be established in the office of county commissioners and will be open the week preceding the fair from 8:30 to 4:30 o'clock each day and until 9 p. m. Saturday, August 2.

A team pulling contest will again be a feature of the fair. A dynamometer to test the pulling capacity of the various teams has been obtained from Ohio State University and will be at the fair on the last two days of the exposition.

The Class A contest for teams weighing more than 3,000 pounds will take place in front of the grandstand August 7 at 10:30 a. m. and the Class B contest for teams weighing under 3,000 pounds will be staged at 9:30 a. m. August 8. In both classes prizes aggregating $80 will be awarded.

All horses and cattle that have competed for prizes will be required to participate in the livestock parade, which will consist of boys' and girls' club floats and livestock, organization floats and livestock exhibits, and will take place before the grandstand at 10:30 a. m. August 8. Prizes will total $55 for the beef breed display, dairy breed display and organization floats.

In the boys' and girls' club department, the agricultural society will distribute prizes totalling $900 and individual merchants will add cash prizes amounting to $170.

An elimination contest will be held at the fair to determine the winning boys' and girls' teams to represent Greene County at the state fair and the winner of the boy and girl individual demonstration will also represent this county in the state contest at the Ohio fair.

There will also be a style show open to any girls who are members of a 4-H clothing club, and who are carrying the summer clothing project. Any member enrolled in the dairy calf project is eligible to try out for the dairy club judging team and the healthiest boy and girl regularly enrolled in 4-H club work will represent this county at the state fair demonstration at the state fair. The boy and girl will be selected at the annual county 4-H club camp.

Prizes totalling $87 will be offered in the Greene County Beef Calf Club contest in the Shorthorn, Angus and Hereford classes. A ribbon will be awarded the grand champion of all breeds.

The Grange exhibit is confined to this county and the agricultural society has appropriated to the Granges the following plan of money awards: Awards will be based on a percentage ratio and $100 will be the base for the number of points that any grange scores will be its per cent of the $100. All displays must have been produced since August 1, 1929.

CLARA BOW ILL IN HOTEL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 23.—Clara Bow, flame-haired movie star, who changed her railroad ticket to Hollywood from Dallas, Texas, to New York—for love of Harry Richman—was ill in bed today.

"Not seriously ill—just indisposition," explained handsome Harry on his way up to her suite in the Hotel Warwick to hold her hand a bit.

"The poor kid is all nerve-shattered anyway about all that bunk they spread when she was down in Dallas."

Richman was referring to reports from Dallas when Clara was there that she was settling an alienation suit brought by the wife of a Texas doctor. Clara denied this many times.

SENTENCED TO JAIL

Entering a plea of guilty to an intoxication charge, Starling Neff, Osborn, was fined $25 and costs by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Monday and was remanded to the County Jail in default of payment of the assessment. Neff was found in a drunken stupor at an alleged disorderly house in Osborn which was raided at midnight Sunday by Osborn authorities with the assistance of Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and A. Davis, county road patrolman. Several other arrests were made.

RACERS FINED

An impromptu automobile race staged on the Dayton-Xenia Pike Sunday by Marion McCoy and Herschel Betchel, both of Dayton, ended in Probate Court Monday morning with both motorists being fined $25 and costs by Judge S. C. Wright on reckless driving charges. Betchel paid his assessment but McCoy was ordered committed to the County Jail until the fine and costs are paid. The sheriff's office made the arrest.

WOMAN KILLED

HAMILTON, O., June 23.—Death today had claimed Mrs. Elizabeth Ruhman, 61, of Mason, O., near here as the result of injuries which she received when her skull was fractured in an automobile accident which occurred yesterday, eight miles east of here.

BISHOP PAUL JONES PREACHES BACCALAUREATE AT ANTIOCH

Bishop Paul Jones delivered the annual baccalaureate address to a class of sixty Antioch College seniors Sunday night. Bishop Jones was in charge of the Episcopal diocese of Utah from 1914-18, was missionary-in-charge of the Central Maine Mission from 1918-20, and secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation from 1920-23. During the past year he has been acting bishop of Southern Ohio, and for the coming school year 1930-31 he will be director of religious activities at Antioch.

In discussing his topic, "Flexibility: Youth's Greatest Asset," Bishop Jones said: "The person who tries to meet life today with an answer to every question, a solution to each problem, and a final explanation for the universe, is simply out of luck. He is bound to be wrong sooner or later, and he is sure, unless he has an unusual capacity for self-delusion to come to the point where some inescapable facts knock his theories into a cocked hat. And that is always a trying and sometime a tragic experience and flexibility is the only preventive of such experiences. Take what you have learned as a good working hypothesis, but be ready to change your theories as new facts and experiences come in."

Today, even more than ever before, the speaker went on, one must have flexibility not alone of the muscles but also in mental and spiritual equipment. To the extent that our age is fluid and unsettled, to the extent that transportation, industrial methods, materials, occupations, habits, institutions, thoughts, and views of life are constantly changing—to that extent must a person be flexible in order to keep up with life.

"The average mind is inflexible," Bishop Jones asserted. "We reshape our institutions and theories to fit new facts, but only slowly, due to the inflexibility of the average mind." But, he continued, "in addition to the mind which clings to old theories, unable to think in terms of new realities, there is another type of inflexibility, a type that is quite sure that whatever is old is wrong and whatever is new must be right. I won't attempt to discuss it with you, but will merely observe that I suspect it simply on the ground of its dogmatism."

"We are often tempted to think today that the only way of acquiring new ideas is by the kind of truth which has been reached by the process of scientific deduction. The words 'revelation' and even 'inspiration' are somewhat suspect today, but we cannot afford to overlook the tremendous contributions that have been made to the life of the world by the great thinkers, prophets, poets and philosophers who have made new conceptions of life and reality."

"There is a question bound to be raised sooner or later," the speaker said in conclusion. "When should one let go and when hold on? Should flexibility be merely that of the sea-weed that sways back and forth with the flow of the waves? Should we, in a word, endeavor to get back to nature and imitate the jelly fish? To ask the question is enough. If one is to hold an open mind when others are closed, one must have some standard by which things can be tested. People give it different names and use different symbols for it, but the most common word that sums it up is faith. Faith in God? In the universe? In man? In society? In values? In life itself? Yes. In any, some, or all of these. Only in the light of such an affirmation can life have real significance, I believe, and only in the pulse that comes from it can one have that flexibility which marks one forever young in a changing and advancing world."

TRAFFIC LANES ON CITY STREETS KEPT OPEN ON SATURDAY

For probably the first time since automobiles came into popular usage there was little or no double parking on streets in the business district of Xenia Saturday—thanks to the activities of the police department.

Following a decision reached at a recent joint conference between City Manager M. C. Smith, Municipal Judge E. D. Smith, Police Chief O. H. Cornwell and Dilver Belden, auto club secretary, to rigidly enforce a traffic regulation prohibiting double parking of autos on the streets, police enforced the ordinance to the letter Saturday.

No motorists were cited for double parking but those drivers who attempted to double park their machines in the business section were required to move on.

The campaign against double parking and other traffic violations has been receiving a mixture of boquets and brickbats but police are being patient and city officials expect to continue the drive to alleviate the traffic situation, particularly on Saturdays when the streets are congested.

U. B. CONVENTION EXPRESSES THANKS

Hospitality extended to delegates to the recent four-day convention of the Christian Education Union, Miami Conference of the United Brethren Church, held at the Xenia U. B. Church, is acknowledged in a resolution of appreciation adopted on the last day of the convention, a copy of which has been received by the Rev. S. L. Brill, pastor of the church.

The delegates desire to express to the Rev. Mr. Brill and the church congregation their appreciation of the entertainment provided in so many ways and for the invitation to hold all future conventions in Xenia. They also thank the citizens of the community for the many courtesies shown the visitors in helping to make the convention a pleasant experience, particularly the police department for parking privileges, the park commission for the use of Shawnee Park, the Chevrolet and Xenia young people for inspiring plays presented, the Xenia business men for special gifts, the First Presbyterian Church for use of its auditorium and The Gazette for publicity.

GRANGE INITIATES

BANDIT KILLED BY WATCHMAN

CHICAGO, June 23.—An unidentified bandit who made the mistake of trying to hold up two private watchmen was shot and killed today in Oak Park, a Chicago suburb.

Mitchell Boland and Joseph Koler were seated in the former's automobile when two men approached the car and drew revolvers. As the man on Boland's side swung the car open Boland fired, hitting him just above the heart and killing him instantly.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. ELSWORTH ABLING

Mrs. Nettie Abling, wife of Elsworth Abling, former Xenian, died at her home in Jamestown, Sunday morning at 1:45 o'clock after an illness of two years. Bright's disease caused her death.

Mrs. Abling was born in Clinton County but spent most of her life in Xenia. She and her family moved to Jamestown about two years ago.

She is survived by her husband, five sons, Forrest and Lawrence of Xenia; Ora, Clarence and Elmer at home; five daughters, Lucille, Lorie, Florence and Vergie at home and Mrs. Mary Cameron, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howland of South Solon; four brothers and three sisters. Funeral services will be held at the Christian Church at Jamestown Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

ENDURANCE FLIGHT PLANE STILL ALOFT

CHICAGO, June 23.—With their motor still functioning normally and all reported well on board their panel, "The City of Chicago," Pilots Kenneth and John Hunter had been continuously aloft today for 274 hours at 2:40 a. m.

The Hunters are out to shatter the 420-hour world record which was established last year by the St. Louis Robin at St. Louis. At 2:40 p. m. yesterday they had exceeded by an hour their own record of 261 hours which they made last summer.

SEVEN BODIES ARE TAKEN FROM LAKE

SANDUSKY, O., June 23.—With seven bodies of the group of eight Toledo men who lost their lives in a lake disaster near West Sister Island June 14, recovered and awaiting burial in Toledo, the search for the body of the eighth man was continued by coastguards today.

The only body yet to be recovered from the lake is that of Herbert Nauts, prominent attorney and son of Charles Nauts, whose body and four others were found Saturday. The seventh body recovered was that of John Meyer, owner of the speedboat in which the eight men met their deaths. His body was found yesterday, near here.

Funeral services for four of the lake victims were to be held in Toledo today.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUR REDEMPTION—Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, Curse is everyone that hangeth on a tree: That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ; that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.—Gal. 3:13, 14.

THE MOTHERLY NATURE

In these days when there is so much crime and dishonesty, it is easy to become pessimistic about human nature. It is a satisfaction to look at those sides of personality that present a nobler aspect. When we see how many harmful folk there are in the world, it is difficult to believe that all these folk had mothers who tried to make good people out of them. Yet this is almost invariably the case. Every woman wants her children to be even better than she is. The best side of her nature shines through here. She will make generous sacrifices for them, and her counsel is usually wise.

The ordinary woman rises to a fine height in this respect. She constantly gives up her desires for the children's welfare. She forsakes pleasures for which she longed, she denies herself comforts that once seemed essential, that the children can have a better chance. She labors long hours for them, often enfeebling herself by this prolonged "dugger."

It is one of the tragedies of life, that so frequently the children have little or no appreciation of all this sacrifice and service. They look at it as something to which they are entitled, that belongs to them as a natural right, and for which no special gratitude is called.

Frequently they go beyond that, and are cross and irritable when their mothers ask some little service or offer some counsel. In later life they will deeply regret this lack of appreciation and affection. The time to show appreciation of every living mother is now, while she is with her children. Some day it will be forever too late in this world.

WORK FOR ALL

The opinion seems to be gaining ground that it is up to the community within reasonable limits, to see that all people who want work shall get a chance. The community recognizes its obligation to keep people from starving. No matter how poor a man is, no matter how unemploying, it is generally admitted that he can't be allowed to go hungry.

But the community owes something more than charity. Our social system must somehow try to provide work for all willing workers. Of course it is hard to discriminate between willing and unwilling people. If there was no chance of being out of a job for a time, a great many people would lose all incentive to effort, and would work in a very lazy way. We can not positively assure people of all types against unemployment due to their own fault.

Cities and towns and states and the federal government should expect to spend a considerable amount of money right along in public works, which should be greatly speeded up at times when employment is slack, to set idle people to work. This may produce somewhat higher taxes, but if useful projects are put through, they will in the end save money.

But while there is an obligation on the community to provide such work, people can't always expect to have the kind of work they are used to. They must learn to adapt themselves to kinds of work that are unfamiliar.

A man of feeble physique could not be expected to get out with a pick and shovel and help build roads. And yet the community expects such people to claim to be unable to perform such tasks, could do them if they really tried and would be benefited by them.

GOOD BOOKNEWS

Radical price cutting by book publishers is the best news that has come our way for years. Novels, histories, biographies that have sold for $2.50 up to $10 will be issued in just as good form for less money. Now if we can get over the idea that we must read a new book just because it is new, if we can learn what is worth read and what is not, the publishers will not have acted in vain. Let's hope the main idea is not to sell more books but simply to sell more books that are worth reading. We don't want mass production in book making. The machine age has put us in mess enough as it is. On the whole it's great news. Nothing could be better for the American public than to increase the reading habit. Next to thinking, reading is the best mental exercise.

THE RIGHT MEDICINE

"I thought you had a pretty tough town until I heard some of your fine preachers and learned about the good work you are doing in Chicago." So wrote a correspondent to Clifford W. Barnes, president of the famous Chicago Sunday Evening club. The greatest preachers, teachers and inspirational leaders in the world talked on Sunday evenings for this organization. It has been a great thing for Chicago. It has turned the minds of thousands to the contemplation of life's better aspects. Every town ought to have its Sunday Evening club. Sunday night church services will hardly come out. But there are plenty of folk who are willing to think seriously about serious things. What they need is a particular opportunity and the right leadership.

UNCLE SAM A JOINER

In 1929 the United States took part in 48 international conferences. According to the state department register, the United States belongs to 22 international commissions. The seas no longer isolate us. What would George Washington say? Did he ever dream that his country would participate to such a degree in the affairs of all the world? And yet, fundamentally, we have followed the advice of Washington. We belong to no "entangling alliances." We are not members of the League of Nations or even the World Court.

HOT DOG

The American automobile and the American digestive system have combined to put the hot dog business into the million dollar class. Indeed, Dr. Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, says roadside restaurants will take $50 million dollars from passing motorists this summer. Good roads, national restlessness, and the fortitude of the United States stomach, have produced a mammoth industry.

What is the value of the German mark in our money? The German gold reichsmark is worth $0.2382 in our money, according to the secretary of the treasury.

From the Spanish

Why are goods carried by ships called "cargo"? The word cargo is derived from the Spanish word "carga" meaning burden, load or charge, and is not taken from the English word car, as so many think.

Railway Mail Service

How many people are employed in the railway mail service? At the close of June 30, 1929, there were 331 officials, 19,385 clerks, 1,922 substitutes and 835 laborers in the railway mail service. This service is divided into 15 divisions, which have central offices in the largest cities in each division.

Civil War Conscription

What was the draft used in the Civil War?

Due to the falling off of the number of volunteers, the government found it necessary, in 1863, to pass the conscription act, the first draft law in this country, providing for enrollment of all able-bodied men between 20 and 45, and putting conscription in effect in sections where the number of volunteers failed to fill the quota. Any person drafted could either furnish a substitute or pay $300 to the government as exemption. The draft did not play an important part, as the number of volunteers was so large.

Cost of Copyrights

How much does it cost to have a published work copyrighted? By an amendment act of congress, effective July 1, 1928, the statutory fee for the registration of a published work subject to copyright was made $2. This includes the copyright office certificate under seal.

Navy Pay

What is the pay of non-commissioned officers and enlisted men in the United States navy? The pay of enlisted men ranges from $21 to $157.50 a month, according to grade and length of service. The pay of warrant officers varies from $153 to $189 a month, according to length of service.

English Policemen

Do English policemen carry guns when on duty? The English police do not carry guns when on ordinary police duty. They are furnished with arms only when on some unusual errand.

TARIFF LAW TO BE ECONOMIC ISSUE OF 1930 CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The new tariff law will be the economic issue of the congressional election campaign, just beginning. Prohibition will be the moral issue. A moral issue may be more exciting than an economic issue but it has less to do with the cost of living.

The Democrats will jump all over the Republicans for passing the new tariff law. Curiously enough, most of the Republicans will be placed in the queer position of having to admit that they don't like it either.

It may well be asked: If the Republicans consider it a bad law, why did so many of them vote for it?

A lot of them certainly do consider it bad. Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania might be expected to say a good word for it, if anyone, for Reed is one of the high-tariff Republicans. Yet, discussing it in the senate, he gave it unmitigated Hell. Columbia. For all that, he voted for it.

However, it happens that Senator Reed told why he voted as he did—and, being an unusually lucid speaker, he told it in words of one syllable that even I could understand. Or maybe there were special reasons why I was able to understand him.

I surmise that the bill got other votes, on grounds similar to Reed's except those who cast themselves so clearly.

It is a matter of opinion whether or not such grounds were sufficient to justify the congressional majority for sticking the American people with so generally repudiated a piece of legislation. Still, understanding him as I did, I had a fellow feeling for the Pennsylvania senator as he described the fix he was in.

Apparently (but not really) changing the subject for a minute, let me remark, kind reader, that doing like this, which you're perusing, is not as easy to dash off as its indifferent quality perhaps leads you to imagine.

A story of a fire or dogfight usually writes itself.

This sort of stuff requires thought, composition and an effort at clarity. It ought also to embody a few especially-evolved ideas. The fact that it falls in these respects by no means implies that plenty of honest toil has not gone into it. And hardly anything is more depressing than to realize, after working like a nigger, that your product is a fizzle.

Nevertheless, it frequently occurs. Many's the time I've been struck by a coking fine hunch for a yarn and sat down to write it, only to have the infernal thing take a wrong slant, muddle itself up and refuse with diabolical cunning to come out the way I wanted it to.

George. It's what made your place secure in our hearts. It's what we all remember you by. Not as "Little Johnny Jones," not as "The Governor's Son," but as the Little Song and Dance Man.

Arriving, often after two or three hours of slavish labor, at the end of one of these abortive jobs, the question arises:

Now what? Obviously the spiel ought to be ditched (and done over again). Quite likely, however, there isn't time enough. True, in all probability the stuff at hand is worse than nothing, but the situation demands something or other, and nothing else available—so it has to serve, and that's all there is to it.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was hoodoo'd thus from its inception—so Senator Reed related; and there were not so many to disagree with him.

Getting off to a bad start, it got worse steadily until, precisely as the congressional session was drawing to a close and no time to get rid of it, he was voting for the bill to get rid of it.

Haven't I felt exactly that same way lots and lots of times as I rushed one of these to the editor?

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

NEAR, YET FAR APART

AS WATER MEASURER told how he put in his days, Peter looked at the fellow in amazement. Busy the insect might be, but what was he accomplishing, really? His was the most useless job in the world—at least so thought Peter.

"What difference does it make how many times your legs pace off the pool?" asked the boy. At the question, Water Measurer flew into a temper.

"It doesn't make any difference. The point is, how many times the pool can go around my legs. Oh, dear me, I didn't mean that. I intended to say what matters is how many of that's all right, boy."

Now I shall have to go all the way back and begin measuring the pool all over again. It is too provoking! And all because you interfered in a matter that is none of your business."

"I'm sorry," murmured Peter, and on the moment Water Measurer forgave him.

"Oh, that's all right, boy," shrilled he. "As a matter of fact, I have nothing else to do and I might as well begin measuring all over again as to continue where I left off."

Peter had been watching Water Measurer very closely. "You look like an old friend of mine, only you're a pool dweller and he lives on the shore. His name is Walking Stick. Do you know him?"

Water Measurer made a queer sound that might have been a chuckle.

"Know him? Why wouldn't I? Looks like me? Why wouldn't I? Walking Stick is my first cousin. Because my home is in the water and he is on dry land we scarcely ever meet—once in a while he'll wave at me from the bank as I float by. But we are good friends for all of that."

Next: "A Spring in His Tail."

Stop Losing Weight

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

"DEAR DOCTOR: I have been on your diet and have lost 85 pounds in seven months. For the last two months I have been eating everything including starches, etc., and have lost on an average of one pound a week. I have had a cold for a month and do not seem to be able to get rid of it. Have been taking medicines advised by the doctor, but they do not help. Do you think it is on account of losing so much weight? I did weigh 240, and am now 155. I would feel fine if it were not for the cold."

MISS S.

While reducing, one may take a cold just as at any other time, Miss S. If this happens, it is advisable to go right back on to the maintenance diet and stop reducing until the cold is better. I would not advise taking much bread or cereals, though, or the flesh foods, for these are acid in reaction, and during a cold or any other illness, it is doubly important to have a strongly alkaline diet. Take potatoes instead of bread, and add more vegetables, cream and butter, milk and fruits to the diet.

After the cold is over, you can go back to the reducing diet. You must look and feel 100 per cent better than you did. Eighty-five pounds excess is an awful load. You apparently have your appetite trained so that you are satisfied with a small amount of food. It is necessary, even in the reducing diet, to have some starches, you must remember; otherwise the fat isn't burned properly, and a type of acidosis comes on. (This acidosis frequently affects those who go on freak diets and eliminate all starches.) At least 100 C. a day of some frankly carbohydrate food—one slice of bread, or a medium sized potato, or a cup of cereal, should be taken. This, with the starches that are in the vegetables and fruits, will be sufficient.

(The instructions which Miss S. followed are contained in our Petting pamphlet. See column rules for obtaining this.)

Miss S.—Cod liver oil is almost always given in tuberculosis. It contains vitamins A and D. Vitamin D contains only vitamin D, but in much greater concentration than in cod liver oil.

Vitamin D has to do with the integrity of the bones and teeth and the chemistry of the tissue fluids, for it is to do with the proper utilization of calcium and phosphorus in the body. You should be cautioned by what your physician says about taking cod liver oil or vitamin A, he will probably advise you to take the cod liver oil, or to add more foods containing vitamin A—green vegetables, cream, egg yolks.

The sunlight or ultra-violet ray treatment is used very successfully in tuberculosis of the bones, but the general treatment is similar to that used in tuberculosis of the lungs.

We have an article which goes into the diet and gives a list of books written for the layman by specialists in the disease, which will help you. See column rules.

"What do you mean by 'column rules' for obtaining the articles?"

"MRS. F."

At the end of all my articles there should be an editor's note giving the column rules, which explain how to get the printed material we offer to our readers. If your paper doesn't run these rules, you will do us all a favor if you ask the editor to run them.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Cultivate Personality

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Girls write in wailing that they can't be popular if they refuse to "pet" and "neck" with their "dates." Just to prove that it is not necessary, read this letter from another "unlikeable" girl.

The answer seems to be that if you have personality plus, you can "put yourself across" without indulging in this cheapening business. Therefore, cultivate your personality, as the ads say, and see if you can be both proper and popular.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I have been reading your little debate on 'unlikeable girls.' I, too, maintain there are unlikeable girls. I am one. I would rather sit at home and twiddle my thumbs" as you say, then be popular if I have to pet.

"There are different types of girls, including the unlikeable, and if a girl doesn't use 'caveman' style he cannot kiss this type. I have come with quite a few boys, but have never kissed one yet. The funny part of it is, I am the most popular girl in my set and am well liked by both boys and girls."

"Tell George, Jr. I think the girls he has been going with are playing blindman's bluff with love. They are probably the type who think it is fun to brag about how many times they have been engaged. Perhaps they were just kidding him along."

"AN UNKISSABLE GIRL."

And here's another letter from a young man.

"DEAR MISS VIRGINIA: You don't know me and I don't know you, but I have been an interested reader of your column for some time, and would like to express my self on the argument of the 'unlikeable' girl."

"I am a young man of 21, and have been out with several girls and have discovered that the 'unkissable' ones are the sweetest of the bunch, and any d—n mollycoddle who tries to change one of them by feeding her a line, ought to be hanged by the ears."

"A girl, to my notion, is not much different from a boy in respect to her feelings, and although I really enjoy a kiss, I think that girls should have some say in the deal. These girls who brag about 'kissing every girl they go out with, regardless, get under my skin. They haven't an ounce of manhood or sportsmanship in their selfish make-up."

"The girl I date now, needless to say, is the 'sweetest girl' I have ever given me a kiss, nor have I ever forced my attentions on her and I'll wager that we have a more enjoyable time together than any of these jelly-backed, manless male beings with their 'gal-lovin' ways."

"I used to think that I would never get over in a big way, as the popular slang goes, unless I had to 'rough 'em up a little,' but I have watched other fellows try it and have found out how well they 'got across,' and have decided on the four-square system."

"Good, this looks like a preacher's sermon, but that is the way I feel about it. See you later."

"JUST OLE POOR JAWN."

Fine word, Jawn. Spoken like a man. The unkissables are 'way ahead in the argument. Come again. I'm very glad you like the column. Your word of praise cheered me a lot."

Keep Body Symmetrical

By GLADYS GLAD

Under or over development of certain parts of the body usually indicate that a thorough course of either body building or reducing is needed.

Unevenly distributed wads of fat often accumulate through improper diet, and lack of exercise. Modification of food habits and forceful execution of exercises will help to model the figure on more harmonious lines.

When the body is properly nourished, and the exercises indulged in thoroughly, every part of the body will respond with an even symmetry. Of course, I except cases in which portions of the body are over developed because of glandular trouble, or withered by some disease such as infantile paralysis.

In race cases, where only the legs are depressingly rounded, the thick scrawny, or the arms thin, exercises for these parts alone will be sufficient.

A double chin is a warning that you may soon be too fleshy for your comfort. Special chin exercises will But the wise woman will watch her diet, and will take plenty of exercise, for the chances are that the trouble originates in incorrect diet and lack of sufficient exercise.

Many females in the modern world are the most active members of the fat society. Most of their exercise is walking. If they would exercise the upper part of their bodies more strenuously, the fat would become more evenly distributed.

The thin girl whose legs are disproportionately large needs a general upbuilding course. Such a course will both reduce her legs, and develop the upper part of her body.

Where there are marked differences in the development of parts of the body, my advice is always for a general course of diet and exercise.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Sally: Warm cocoa butter, and massage it well into the arms. This will help to nourish the tissues, and round out the contours of the arms. Also, exercise the arm muscles vigorously.

Hand Lotions: An excellent lotion to keep the hands soft is composed of one part of glycerine to three parts of rosewater. Massage the back with warmed cocoa butter. Exercise will also help to develop the bust.

The first miniature artificial golf course of the Tom Thumb variety to be available in this locality is being constructed by Clement and Homer Henrie, brothers, W. Market St., in the rear of Fritz Haller's barbecue stand on the Springfield Pike.

Whereas the miniature links have been installed by Lawrence E. John in the rear of his N. Galloway St. property will be a nine-hole affair with natural grass greens, that of the Henrie boys will be an eighteen hole course modeled after the design of the usual Tom Thumb courses.

The course will occupy a space 150 feet square and only a putting iron will be used to play it. The greens will be of artificial construction as well as the hazards, such as hollow logs.

The Henrie brothers patterned after the more expensive Tom Thumb courses in laying out their links but they are using their own ideas as well in the general layout. They have been working on the project for several days and hope to have the course completed and lighted by the Fourth of July. Three greens are already finished.

This miniature golf game is a new wrinkle that is taking the country by storm and should last longer than the usual fads because it appeals to persons of all ages and both sexes. It provides an opportunity to play golf on a small scale and is popular among people who secretly would like to play golf, who are not members of golf clubs but who long for a chance to learn something about the game.

Under no circumstance will Graham McNamee, popular radio announcer, broadcast the blow by blow description of Max Schmeling's proposed return bout with Jack Sharkey next September if the new synthetic heavyweight champion of the world has anything to say about it.

Coming out of his shell of silence at last Herr Schmeling has agreed to give the Boston salaried man a return fight only on certain conditions, one of which is that he "will have no part of McNamee as a radio announcer" on the grounds of the National Broadcasting Co. speaker, describing the recent Sharkey-Schmeling farce, was partial to the American and made many errors.

Maxie, by inference, wants to be given an even break with the millions of fight fans who will listen to his next bout over the radio. He wants an impartial radio announcer who will not favor Sharkey.

Listening to Graham's description of the first fight between the two heavies, we gathered the impression from him that Maxie hardly laid a glove on Sharkey during the four rounds and did not even muss his hair.

SOFTBALL LOOP STANDINGS

After a week of enforced idleness, due to the eccentric schedule, the Lang Chevrolet Co., softball team, leader of the National League by the margin of a half a game, will return to action this week and play two games facing the Downtown Country Club Monday night and Carroll-Binder Thursday night.

Inasmuch as the hometowners and Carroll-Binder had victories over Geyers, conqueror of Lange, each contest should be respectively close.

This week marks the beginning of the second round of play and the completion of one-third of the season's games.

Other scheduled games this week are: Tuesday—Criterion vs. Geyers; Wednesday—Caddies vs. Co. L; Friday—Krippendorf-Kiwanis-Rotary.

In the American League the Krippendorf team has a full game lead over Kiwanis-Rotary and the latter nine has a chance to tighten its grip by beating the leaders this week.

League standings follow:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Langs	4	1	.800
Geyers	4	2	.667
D. T. C. Club	2	2	.500
Carroll-Binder	2	3	.400

FINED, SENTENCED TO WORK HOUSE

Returned to Xenia from Ironton, O., last Friday by Probation Officer J. E. Watts to face prosecution on a non-support charge, Leslie Bled paid guilty and was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to six months in the Cincinnati Workhouse by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Monday morning. The workhouse sentence will be suspended providing Bled is able to furnish $500 bond guaranteeing the support of his 5-year-old child, who is living with her grandmother, Mrs. Beatrice Wroe at Osborn. Mrs. Wroe filed the affidavit against Bled.

Merchants Defeat Lincoln Cubs Here 8 To 7

LOCALS OUTHIT BUT COMBINE SAFETIES FOR EARLY SCORING

Ankeney Scatters Hits
He Allows Dayton
Team

Outhit by a wide margin, the Xenia Merchants nevertheless managed to eke out an 8 to 7 victory over the Lincoln Cubs, Dayton's leading colored road team, Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, the triumph being the sixth of the current season in seven games played by the local team.

The Cubs mauled Ankeney, Merchants pitcher, for fifteen hits and staged belated rallies in the eighth and ninth innings that almost but not quite evened the count. Hill was the starting pitcher for the visitors but was wild and retired in the seventh in favor of Cox. Off their combined offerings the Merchants were able to gather nine safeties.

Merchants opened the scoring with two runs in the first inning. After Johnson had fanned for a starter, D. Fuller drew a free ticket to first and successive singles by Ruse and Durnbaugh plated him. Ruse, who had taken second on the throw to third, also scored.

The Dayton nine assaulted Ankeney for three runs in the second to take the lead momentarily. Kendrick singled and on Ruse's error R. Staton reached first and Kendrick raced to third. Harris fanned but Ewing singled. So did Van Hook. Hill struck out and when Bevis singled a double steal was attempted. But the Merchants were not caught napping. Weller made a snap throw to Murrell, whose relay to the plate nipped Van Hook.

Two more runs were scored by the Merchants in the second after two outs were made. Ankeney walked, Johnson tripled for the longest hit of the afternoon and D. Fuller singled.

Ankeney pitched shutout ball for the next five rounds and meanwhile his mates were building up a substantial advantage for him. They tallied another un in the sixth on Murrell's single, a sacrifice by Cain, an out at first and an error on Ankeney's roller. For good measure the locals chased three more runs over the plate in the seventh and these extra markers were live-savers as events afterward proved. D. Fuller was safe on an error and took second and third on passed balls. Ruse fouled out to the catcher but Durnbaugh walked. Then came successive hits by Moore, Murrell and Cain. Weller walked but a snappy double play was engineered on Ankeney's grounder to second.

In the eighth the Cubs came to life at bat and bunched three hits with a walk to score twice. Parks doubled, Kendrick fanned and Joe Anderson, subbing for R. Staton, singled, sending Parks to third. This time the double steal worked, Parks scoring and Anderson getting to second. This upset Ankeney, who walked P. Staton. A single by Ewing scored Anderson. Then Shoecraft hit into a double play, Ruse to Murrell to Cain.

In the ninth the Cubs clustered four more hits and made a desperate bid to even the score but the promising rally fell one run short. Doubles by Cox and Anderson and singles by Bevis and Fox accounted for the two runs.

The colored team ran wild on the bases, stealing seven sacks.

A passenger on an interurban bus line was peacefully enjoying the ride to a neighboring little city, when suddenly an electric light bulb in front and above him burst, and a piece of glass struck him in the eye.

The man completed the trip in great discomfort, and when the town was reached was immediately taken to a hospital, where it was discovered that his injury would permanently impair his sight.

The passenger was confined to the hospital for several weeks, after which he filed suit against the bus company.

How would you decide the case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

The decision: The court held for the company. The judges reasoned thus: The mere occurrence of the accident leads to no inference that the company had been negligent. The bulb might have burst from causes over which the company had no control. Only for negligence can the company be held liable. And no negligence is here proved.

LEGION JUNIORS
DEFEAT BELLBROOK

For the second time this season the Xenia Junior American Legion baseball team nosed out a one-run victory over the Bellbrook Pirates in a practice game Sunday afternoon on the KillKare Park diamond. The score was 12 to 11. In a previous game the local juniors defeated Bellbrook, 11 to 10 in an eleven-inning struggle.

Anderson pitched for the winners. He weakened in the last two rounds and Bellbrook tallied four runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth. W. Hopkins pitched for Bellbrook and was hit hard all the way. Thompson, center fielder for the Xenia juniors, smacked two home runs, hit a single and walked once. Score by innings:

FRONT JACK-KNIFE DIVE

LESSON THIRTEEN
The jackknife dive will follow the plain front dive. Get a good spring and a good lift from the board, going almost straight up, touch your hands to the toes, then straighten out with a snap so that you are in position for your entry into the water. It is best to at first touch only your knees, otherwise you will turn completely over. This must be practiced until it is automatic, going straight up, touching your toes and straightening out. When you get more spring than you need and straighten out before the full height is reached an overthrow results.

As in other dives you must watch your form and see that your toes are pointed, legs straight and together, your hands locked overhead and your back arched as you enter the water so that you strike the water as smoothly as a lance hurled point first.

Next: Back Jackknife Dive.

CARNERA - GODFREY BATTLE IS ATTRACTING INTEREST OF FANS

By HYPE IGOE
I. N. S. Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—The Ohio-based Signor Carnera will meet Giant George Godfrey in the Phillies' ball park here tonight and if the happy-go-lucky Primo knocks Gawke kicking, what then? What will they say? In the bag? How can they?

Certainly George has not improved with age and he can be whipped. Sharkey, for instance, did it when he wasn't a high-toned fighter. Risko got the decision over him, though it wasn't a brilliant bit of judging.

Jack Renault whipped Godfrey twice and George lost on a foul to Chuck Wiggins.

Godfrey, to my mind, couldn't possibly be concerned in a bout that might be branded a shoo-in before the starting bell rang. He must be interested in a possible chance of fighting Schmeling or Sharkey for the world's title some day. Why should he endanger that chance by agreeing to anything crooked? I, for one, believe that the bout will be fought absolutely on its merits.

After all that has gone before, Carnera wasn't watch his step. He still has a chance to appear before the New York board and plead ignorance of any monkey business in the Oakland fight. It is his intention to call on Muldoon and the boys to state his side of the case and if he could come into the meeting with knockouts over hard-hitting Christner and Godfrey to his credit, who could or would deny him?

Tonight's battle could "make" Carnera yet it could hardly break him no matter which way the cat jumped. Carnera has his now! He needs a victory over a fellow of Godfrey's prominence if only to get himself right with commissions all over the world. It would lead to universal forgiveness, whether he's done wrong or not. If he smacks Gawke down he is right, up there where they can't possibly see him. If Godfrey appears Primo, then he'll be a second Harry Wells. The two are going to fill the Phillies' park to the bulging point. The advance sale is far over $100,000 and when Quaker Town ponies up that advance tab, you can set it down that something's coming off.

It is up to the pair to do boxing a nice turn. Let them spread their level best. I'm convinced that they will. That being the case, I'm afraid that Godfrey is in for a rough evening. It's not so easy to sock a steam roller and make it say: "uncle."

WILMINGTON PLANS
BOULEVARD LIGHTS

Wilmington city council has accepted a plan proposed by the Dayton Power and Light Co. for installation of a boulevard lighting system in downtown Wilmington. The system provides for installation of ninety-eight lights, sixty-seven of which will burn until midnight while thirty-one will burn all night. The lamps will be mounted on standards fifteen and one-half feet high at intervals of ninety-five feet along Walnut, South, Mulberry, Locust, Main and Sugartree Sts.

The cost of the lights will be $50 each per year for lights that burn until midnight and $60 each per year for the all-night lights. The cost will be jointly borne by the city and property owners, who will be assessed twenty-five cents per front foot per year. Installation of the system will necessitate removal of all poles in the downtown district.

CANTLON IS WINNER AT AKRON SPEEDWAY TO APPROACH TITLE

Detroit Driver Is Easy
Victor In 100-Mile
Race

AKRON, O., June 23.—Victorious in the 100-mile automobile speed race over the Akron-Cleveland board oval, Shorty Cantlon of Detroit, who placed second in the Indianapolis Memorial Day 500-mile race, today was accredited 120 points toward the 1930 A. A. title.

Cantlon won the 100-mile grind in his Miller-Scofield here yesterday with ease, although for sixteen laps Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis veteran, put up a sturdy, threatening race in an Empire State Special. The resulting two-man speed duel thrilled the 12,000 spectators. The "flat tire jinx," however, forced Shaw to the pits four times and shoved him out of the picture as far as victory over Cantlon was concerned.

Billy Arnold, youthful Chicago speedster and titleholder of the Indianapolis and Altona races, started the race in a Fronty-Ford, but he was not feeling in good shape for the grind, and after completing twenty-three laps he surrendered the wheel to his relief pilot, Gene Hausten of Detroit. Hausten roared to the checkered flag in fourth place.

Cantlon's winning time was 1:27:32, an average of 68.18 miles per hour. Russell Snowberger of Philadelphia, driving a Russell Special, placed second in the race, eight laps behind the winner. Three laps further in the rear came Chester Gardner of Douglas, Ariz., in a Miller. Following Hausten came Bert Karnatz, Frank Farmer and Wilbur Shaw.

Zeke Meyer, Whiz Sloan, and Mel Kenaley, the three other starters in the race, were forced out of competition by various motor troubles.

Polishing the offerings of three pitchers for fourteen hits, the Jamestown Independents decisively defeated the Osborn Flyers by a score of 13 to 2 Sunday afternoon on the Leach Park diamond at Jamestown.

Russ was the starting hurler for Osborn but he was succeeded in turn by Armstrong and Lewis. Evans twirled the first six innings for the Independents and Heavy pitched the last three rounds without being scored upon. The Flyers were held to four hits.

Osborn averted a whitewash by tallying two runs in the fourth stanza as a result of a walk, two hits and two errors by Gallagher, Jamestown shortstop.

Jamestown chalked up four runs in the first inning and sewed up the game in the fourth with a seven-run flare-up. Score by innings: Osborn.....000 20 000—2 4 3 Jamestown.....400 701 103—13 14 3

INJURIES FATAL
Funeral services were held Monday morning at St. Columbkille Catholic Church, Wilmington, for James Welch, 70, farmer, who died last Friday evening from injuries sustained when he was thrown from a wagon and trampled by a runaway team of horses eight weeks ago. Mr. Welch was a native of Greene County. He leaves a brother, John Welch.

MANIAC SLAYER DESCRIBED BY NEAR VICTIMS

NEW YORK, June 23.—The only two living persons who have knowingly seen the massacre maniac today painted a new picture for police of the missing madman.

Their stories contradicted the claim in his letters to the public that he was an avenger for a secret international society. It also showed him as anything but the polite and chivalrous person he wrote that he was.

In both cases, after the maniac had murdered Joseph Moynski and Noel Sowley, while the men were in parked automobiles with girls, he attempted to attack the girls.

Catherine May, 19, who was with Moynski, today said that the killer attempted to attack her almost before Moynski had breathed his last.

Betty Ring, who was with Sowley, said that after shooting her escort to death, the maniac also attempted to attack her but was halted by her prayers and the fact that a religious medal hung at her throat.

The girls' stories put a new light on the fiend, quite different from his account in letters to the New York Evening Journal in which he said that he had killed because of a "mission" and that he was now flying back to Russia.

Police continued their intensive search for the madman.

The Theater

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is casting about for stories for Lawrence Tibbett, its opera star, who made such a success in "The Rogue Song" and now needs new worlds to conquer. "June Moon" is said to be assured and it is said negotiations are under way for the purchase of "The Count of Monte Christo," the romantic novel by Alexander Dumas, which has twice been made into silent pictures.

James O'Neill, stage favorite, played the title role first for Paramount back in 1913 and John Gilbert made the film for Fox in 1922. It was Jack's first big picture and started him on his way to success.

Since "The Rogue Song" there have been predictions that Tibbett will become the new "great lover" of the screen, a distinction that may be challenged by the fast-moving Maurice Chevalier.

Since Lina Baquett and her husband, Peverell Marley separated the other day, they have been palling around together and have fallen in love all over again.

The separation occurred Monday and Wednesday they were seen dancing together and expressed themselves as being much in love. Lina's little daughter by her first husband, the late Sam Warner, is said to be a bone of contention. The child has been cared for by the Warner family a great deal.

Augustin Duncan, brother of the late Isadora Duncan, recalled memories of the departed days of troupe to Paul Shinkman recently in New York.

Duncan's trouping days were recalled by "The Little Father of the Wilderness," written for Francis Wilson by Austin Strong and Lloyd Osborne and selected by The Players recently for their 1930 revival.

Places of honor in the cast were given Duncan and Wilson because both had helped introduce that

A hint of changes in the movie industry is given in new clauses Warner Brothers are putting into their contracts. Each new performer signs up for stage as well as screen work. Walter Pidgeon, Joe Brown, Bernice Claire, Loretta Young, Betty Compson and Noah Beery are thus signed and will work in Warner musical shows in New York. A photograph record clause is also in the new contracts the result of Warners buying out the Brunswick Co. Noah Beery has made two records. And now they are signed for television rights.

CHILD BORN SUNDAY AT MORROW MANSION ON ANNE'S BIRTHDAY

tory at the polls when he was nominated Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey.

"They say the baby looks like his father," one of the Morrow servants told waiting reporters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh were married May 27, 1929. They have become known as the perfect air couple. They made many flights together.

Despite her approaching motherhood, Mrs. Lindbergh clung to her custom of accompanying her famous husband on flights. Only four days ago they flew together to Hartford, Conn., from Teterboro airport, New Jersey.

Mrs. Lindbergh had invited several friends for a quiet celebration of her birthday yesterday. The celebration was postponed, however, but all immediate members of the family remained in the Morrow home throughout the day.

For weeks, "Lindy," it is said, had been hoping the child would be a boy—an "eagle" who some day may fly the air lanes with at least some of the skill of his illustrious "daddy."

Formal announcement of the birth of the boy was made by a friend of the family, who desired that his name be withheld. He telephoned the information to the press associations and to New York newspaper offices and they in turn promptly relayed it to reporters who had been posted at the gates of the Morrow estate for days in anticipation of the happy event.

Soon messenger boys, loaded with flowers and congratulatory telegrams, began arriving at the Morrow home. More flowers were delivered today.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of "Lindy," was expected to come to Englewood from her home in Grosse Pointe, Detroit.

The arrival of the Lindbergh baby was almost the sole topic of conversation in this village today. Many residents went to the Morrow estate and looked through the gate where the Morrow house is hidden away. Several close friends, who were known by the guards, were admitted.

Neighbors recalled the day that Lindbergh and Miss Anne Spencer Morrow were married on her father's estate; the courtship of Anne by the rather shy Lindbergh that preceded that event and the numerous flights Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh have made since the wedding.

In the last year they have flown more than 30,000 miles. The romance of the Lindberghs rivals the most imaginative creations of fiction writers. A little more than three years ago, when Lindbergh made his thrilling and dramatic flight from New York to Paris, he was comparatively unknown and he did not realize he was flying into the limited gallery of world celebrities.

He never thought he would capture the imagination of the world; that he would be placed on a pedestal and idolized by young and old alike. Anne Morrow was only a school girl then, and she wrote a poem to the Lone Eagle. Hundreds of others, in other ways, had paid tribute to the famous flier.

Lindbergh's fame led to his meeting with Anne. The former air mail pilot became a frequent caller at the Morrow estate not long after his triumphal return from Paris. Before the end of 1928 his engagement to Anne was rumored; in February, 1929, it was officially announced. Lindbergh visited the Morrrows at Mexico City and interested Anne in flying. He and his fiancée were flying over Mexico City on February 27, 1929, when their plane lost a wheel in the air and overturned in landing. The colonel received a dislocated shoulder. Mrs. Lindbergh took up flying in earnest after they were married. She flew to the Pacific coast with the colonel; again to Washington, D. C.; last August they flew in the national air races at Cleveland and a week later to Wichita, Kan., in search of the missing plane City of Can Francisco. Two weeks later they hopped off on a 7,000 mile flight to open

Pan-American Airways' passenger and mail air line to Paramaribo, British Guiana.

When she returned to New York, she resumed her flying lessons and in October received her pilot's license. Later she and the colonel became much interested in gliding. On April 20, this year, the Lindberghs, in a new plane, established a new transcontinental speed record by traveling from Los Angeles to New York in fourteen hours and forty-five minutes.

The Lindberghs have been a happy couple—very much in love with each other. They have been rarely separated even for a day since their marriage. For weeks rumors of an impending visit of the stork had been current and the world at large had been waiting for the arrival of the "child of a century" and wondering if it would be a boy.

PENSION BILL AND PROHIBITION WILL OCCUPY FINAL WEEK

he settled. The issue arose after the house refused to appropriate $20,000 asked for its maintenance during the coming fiscal year.

A senate appropriations subcommittee relented and proposed a $50,000 fund but restricted the commission's activities to investigating prohibition enforcement. This substitute must be approved by both house and senate or the commission will die July 1.

Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, a dry, fathered the $50,000 proposal. He specified the commission should abandon all its law-enforcement inquiries and limits its investigations to prohibition. This met with opposition from Senator Jones (R) of Washington, father of the Jones law, who declared the commission should be permitted to continue all phases of law-enforcement inquiry.

The senate and house will have to decide this controversy. First, the senate can restore the whole $250,000 fund, or it can adopt the Glass substitute, or it can agree with the house to kill the commission. If it does appropriate any money, the house must later agree to the expenditure. Debate will start on it in the senate tomorrow as the fund was included in the second deficiency appropriation bill.

This measure also included the $10,660,000 appropriation for starting work on the Boulder Dam. A threatened filibuster against this appropriation will be stifled by invoking the gag-rule of cloture, if necessary, and administration leaders predicted its adoption.

The pension row will not be settled so easily. The house has passed a bill variously estimated at costing the government from $181,000,000 to $400,000,000 a year.

The senate finance committee modified the bill to a form where it is estimated as spending from $102,000,000 to $250,000,000 a year. In either form, the bill will meet a presidential veto.

The president's views were made known to congress in a letter to Senator Watson. The president included communications from Mellon and Hines. Mellon said the government would close the next fiscal year "with a deficit of over $100,000,000." He said if the pending pension bill was enacted, income taxes probably would have to be increased at the December session.

Mr. Hoover, backed by Hines, also declared the present bill far exceeded the requests of the American Legion for relief legislation. Hines declared the Legion was content with a $35,000,000 bill and that the pending measure violated all the old principles of soldier relief legislation.

With a Hoover veto threatened, it was entirely likely the senate would amend the pension act to conform with the administration's views. The vote probably will come late this afternoon, since debate will be limited after 3 o'clock. Then the measure will be sent to conference to iron out the differences between house and senate, always with a view to meeting the presidential declaration that the relief must be held within a $75,000,000 limit.

With pension and appropriation bills out of the way, congress will be free to adjourn. Administration leaders hope to adjourn next Saturday.

SON OF EX-XENIAN CALLED BY DEATH

Word has been received here by relatives of the death of Ralph Long, son of E. E. Long, former Xenian, who died at his home in Washington, D. C., last Monday evening. Heart trouble caused his death. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon and burial was made in Washington, D. C.

E. E. Long was in this city several weeks ago accompanying the body of his mother, Mrs. Fannie Long, who was buried in Woodland Cemetery.

The son is survived by his father and three brothers.

Williams took the injured man to the physician's office, according to police, who did not hold the driver.

WALES CELEBRATES 36TH BIRTHDAY BUT IS STILL UNMARRIED

seemed destined to be the future queen of England have since married, until today it seems impossible to name any one woman who would fulfill the necessary conditions.

Under the terms of the royal marriage act, the heir to the throne is supposed to marry a direct descendant of the royal blood. The act has been rendered flexible through the ages, however, and at present there is nothing to prevent the prince from marrying an American girl of breeding and social position, for instance.

Ever since he attained his majority, the prince has been linked by rumor and report to literally score of women and girls. Among them have been a number of royal princesses, including female members of the ruling houses of Italy, Sweden, Spain, Belgium and Denmark.

One by one, however, these rumors have been dissipated, either by the marriage of the lady concerned or by time.
